WASHINGTON — The war proclamation issued by President Wilson is as follows:
"Whereas, the congress of the United States, in the exercise of the constitutional authority vested in them, have resolved by joint resolution of the senate and house of representatives bearing date this day, that a state of war between the United States and the imperial German government which has been thrust upon the United States, in hereby formally declared:

"Whereas, it is provided by section 4067 of the revised statutes as follows:
"Whenever there is declared a war between the United States and any foreign nation or government or any invasion or predatory incursion is perpetrated, attempted or threatened against the territory of the United States by any foreign nation or government and the president makes public proclamation of the event, all natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of a hostile nation or government being male of the age of fourteen years and upward who shall be within the United States and not actually naturalized shall be liable to be apprehended, restrained, secured and removed as alien enemies.

Directs Conduct Toward Aliens.
The president is authorized in any such event by his proclamation thereof or other public acts to direct the conduct to be observed on the part of the United States toward the aliens who become so liable, the manner and degree of the restraint to which they shall be subject and in what cases and upon what security their residence shall be permitted and to provide for the removal of those who, not being permitted to reside within the United States, refuse or neglect to depart therefrom; and to establish any such regulations which are found necessary in the premises and for the public safety.

"Whereas, by sections 4068, 4069 and 4070 of the revised statutes, further provision is made relative to alien enemies:

Proclaims a State of War.
Now, therefore, I, Woodrow Wilson, president of the United States of America, do hereby proclaim to all whom it may concern that a state of war exists between the United States and the imperial German government, and I do specially direct all officers, civil or military, of the United States that their exercise vigilance and zeal in the discharge of the duties incident to such a state of war, and I do, moreover, earnestly appeal to all American citizens that they in loyal devotion to their country, dedicated from its foundation to the principles of liberty and justice, uphold the laws of the land and give undivided and willing support to those measures which may be adopted by the constitutional authorities in prosecuting the war to a successful issue and in obtaining a secure and just peace.

Aliens Enjoined to Keep Peace.
And, acting under and by virtue of the authority vested in me by the constitution of the United States and the said sections of the revised statutes, I do hereby further proclaim and direct that the conduct to be observed on the part of the United toward all natives, citizens, denizens or subjects of Germany, being male, of the age of fourteen and upward, who shall be within the United States and not actually naturalized, who for the purpose of this proclamation and under such sections of the revised statutes are termed alien enemies, shall be as follows:

"All alien enemies are enjoined to preserve the peace toward the United States and to refrain from crime against the public safety and from violating the laws of the United States and of the states and territories thereof, and to refrain from actual hostility or giving information, aid or comfort to the enemies of the United States and to comply strictly with the regulations which are hereby or which may be from time to time promulgated by the president, and so long as they shall conduct themselves in accordance with law they shall be undisturbed in the peaceful pursuit of their lives and occupations and be according the consideration due to all peaceful and law-abiding persons, except so far as restriction may be necessary for their own protection and for the safety of the United States, and toward such alien enemies as conduct themselves in accordance with laws all citizens of the United States are enjoined to preserve the peace and to treat them with all such friendliness as may be compatible with loyalty and allegiance to the United States.

"Is Miss Watriss at home?" asked a middle aged man of a maid who answered his call at the front door of a handsome country residence.
"I'll see, sir."

The gentleman dropped a card on the salver the maid held to him, bearing the name of Alonzo Tewkesbury, and she took it upstairs, while the gentleman stepped into a reception room.
Mr. Tewkesbury had complained to his friend Mrs. Sansom that he had neglected to marry during the youthful mating period and had before him the prospect of living all his life without a companion or a home. Mrs. Sansom had replied that she had a woman friend who had a similar prospect before her.

"You are both well off," she said, "in this world's goods and would make a good match."

This led to an arrangement made by Mrs. Sansom, with a view to bringing the parties together, and Mr. Tewkesbury was making his first call on Miss Watriss.

Presently a woman, plainly but neatly dressed, came down with the card in her hand and said:
"Mr. Tewkesbury, I am Miss Watriss' housekeeper, Mrs. Hawkins. Miss Wa-triss has been unavoidably called away.
She has commissioned me to say to you that she may return any time during the day and if you will wait her coming she will be glad to see you. I am directed to do what I can to enable you to fill in the time. We have a fine library, and I can furnish you with the late magazines."

"H'm!" said Mr. Tewkesbury thoughtfully. "Are you in Miss Watriss' confidence?"
"Somewhat."

"Are you aware of the object of this call?"
"I am."

"Then I know of no better way to pass the time than for you to tell me something about Miss Watriss."

"Miss Watriss is simply a woman like any other woman. She is neither very good nor very bad. She has a good income, but finds it difficult to live within it."

"Then you think she desires to add comes than with one. The party of the second part would share in this advantage."

"She is right in that. This romance light. This proposed marriage is, I take it, on the same order as European marriages where romance is made subservient to common sense."

"That's it. There is too much romance and too little sense in American marriages. Besides, a man of fortune and a woman—you say thirty five?
—can't go about a courtship as a couple in their teens."

"Are there any other questions you would like to ask?"
"You are very kind to furnish me with this information."

"Not at all. Miss Watriss told me before she left to answer truthfully any questions you might ask and to tell you especially that which she would not like to say herself; that one of the considerations in making the proposed match would be a matter of money. Her income is six thousand a year."

other sources varies from five to fifteen thousand, a business income becoming nearly always uncertain."

be accomplished?"
